Federal programs, formerly known as Title 1, supports schools through funding. Parent and family engagement is a major role in their department where they train and engage parents to help support families. There is a STEM program coming up in the near future for parents to engage in.

Parents shared experiences they had at different schools where they have involved parents and families. A parent asked how many people participate in these events. Mr. Flemming replied, “I have never been to one, so I can not tell you. I can find out.”
